Doing our bit

Here's how the TUI Care Foundation is taking action for trees, turtles and local communities in travel destinations worldwide

Did you know that sea turtles are ecological powerhouses?

As these graceful seafarers glide through our oceans, they prune seagrass beds, support coral reef health and carry nutrients across marine habitats. Quietly and consistently, they help to keep the ocean in balance.

Meanwhile on land, trees shape entire ecosystems and communities. Storing carbon, regulating the climate, sheltering birds and insects, stabilising soil, filtering water, and producing the oxygen we all need to breathe.

Save the trees (and the turtles!)

From rising seas to vanishing forests, sea turtles and trees are under threat. This is where the TUI Care Foundation comes in, on a mission to protect the environment and empower lives in travel destinations around the world.

TUI Forests is one of its programmes. From community-run nurseries to forest-based tourism experiences in destinations like Spain, Kenya, Peru and Indonesia, its projects blend conservation with sustainable development.

TUI Turtle Aid is another programme that protects endangered sea turtles and safeguards turtle nests, as well as creating turtle-friendly beaches that help increase survival rates. It also gives holidaymakers tips on how to protect local turtle populations, like not taking plastic to the beach or leaving litter behind.

Want to get involved?

With every purchase of our special edition TUI Care Foundation insulated cup, a £2 donation goes directly to the TUI Turtle Aid or TUI Forests programme, depending on which design you buy. You can also scan the QR code on your cup to adopt a turtle or tree. Every tree adoption supports the care of a newly-planted seedling in one of the TUI Care Foundation's forests around the world, while every turtle adoption helps to protect sea turtles for generations to come. A great gift for yourself or a loved one – which also leaves a lasting legacy for the planet!

For more information about the TUI Care Foundation, go to tuicarefoundation.com.

Safety in the sky

Your safety is our top priority, and nobody knows this more than TUI Airways First Officer, John Beevers.

We sat down with him to get all the important info you need to know when flying with us...

So, John, what can you bring on board, and what should you leave behind?

You can't bring anything classed as a 'hazardous material', like matches and flammable liquids, on board the plane as it's against the law. Something like a cigarette lighter – labelled a 'dangerous good' – is fine to have. Just a heads up though, you'll need to keep it with you at all times. If you need to bring needles and syringes for medical reasons, that's okay – you can dispose of them in the yellow sharps bins we have on every flight. Also, any items that could get in the way during an unlikely evacuation should be left at home. This includes things like foot hammocks, seat-to-bed converters and anything you can attach to your seat or tray table. Since these haven't been tested for use on planes, they're not allowed on board. If you're ever unsure, our cabin crew can lend a hand.

How about electronic gadgets? Any specific rules for these?

Yes. You can keep lightweight devices like tablets or small laptops in the seat pocket during the flight, as long as they're set to airplane mode. Any devices without an airplane mode can interfere with the systems of the plane, so for obvious reasons can't be used.

Please use headphones with devices that play sound to avoid disrupting others around you – just be sure to take them off for the safety demo.

People like to take photos during their flight. Anything they should know?

We love seeing those early holiday photos – it's all part of the fun and making memories, right. So, go ahead, snap those selfies and group shots, but remember to respect other passengers and our crew, and leave anyone you don't know out of your pics.

Being considerate of other passengers is really important. So, what else should we know about how to behave during the flight?

We know you're probably in a great mood getting ready for your holiday – who wouldn't be? However, that's not an excuse for things getting too rowdy. If the cabin crew spots anyone getting a bit too wild, they'll step in to calm things down. And if it keeps up, we might have to get in touch with the police, which nobody wants, right? So, let's all relax and enjoy the start of a well-earned getaway.

That leads nicely on to our final question about smoking and alcohol...

Yeah, it does. Smoking's a no-go, so no cigarettes, nicotine replacements or anything like that. We've got smoke detectors in every toilet, so if you light up, a fine will be coming your way when we land. Vaping? That's not allowed on the plane either, and if you're travelling with one, keep it with you at all times.

When it comes to drinks, remember only our crew can serve alcohol – so leave your duty-free stuff for when you're on the ground. Also, alcohol can hit you harder when you're high up, so our crew might have to say no to more drinks if it affects safety on board. And don't forget, it's actually illegal to be drunk on a flight. So, sip some water and take it easy when the drinks cart comes by.
